

Biodata: Abdul Karim, Thapanee Khemanuwong, Tanjila Ferdous, Tasnova Humaira, Shahin Sultana, Shaik Abdul Malik Mohamed Ismail

Abdul Karim teaches at Brac Institute of Languages, Brac University, Dhaka, Bangladesh. His research interests include pre- and in-service teacher education, teachers' psychological well-being, language Policy and planning, translanguaging, and English language education, as well as professional development and critical practices of teachers. He has disseminated his ideas through scholarly publication in journals, including Applied Linguistics Review, Journal of Language, Identity and Education, Journal of Teacher Education, Asian Englishes, English Teaching & Learning, MEXTESOL Journal, and Reading & Writing Quarterly.

Thapanee Khemanuwong (Ph.D.) earned a bachelor's degree in English Language Education (2nd class honours) from Chulalongkorn University, Thailand, a master's degree and a Ph.D. in English Language Education/ TESOL from Universiti Sains Malaysia, Malaysia. She is currently a lecturer at the School of Liberal Arts, King Mongkut's Institute of Technology Ladkrabang. Her research interests include instructional coaching, English language assessment, reading comprehension ability and TESOL education.

Ms. Tanjila Ferdous is Senior Lecturer at the Brac Institute of Languages, Brac University. She works appeared in the International Journal of Instruction, addressing emotional challenges in collaborative learning. Her current research focuses on integrating the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) into the English curriculum to foster global citizenship. With a deep passion for innovative pedagogy, her research interests span curriculum development, collaborative learning, and the integration of technology to improve ESL instruction. She commits to advancing research that addresses global educational challenges, with a long-term goal of creating impactful learning environments that align with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

Tasnova Humaira is Senior Lecturer at Brac Institute of Languages, Brac University. She has a Master's degree in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL).

Shahin Sultana teaches at the Faculty of Arts & Humanities, Notre Dame University, Dhaka, Bangladesh. Her research interests include teaching writing, material designing, testing and evaluation, teacher professional development, and second language acquisition. She has published in prestigious international journals and conducted teacher training workshops in Bangladesh and abroad.

Shaik Abdul Malik Mohamed Ismail (PhD) is an Honorary Associate Professor at the School of Educational Studies, Universiti Sains Malaysia (USM). He also serves as a Senior Research Fellow at the Industry and Community Network Division of USM. Dr. Ismail earned his PhD in Curriculum and Instruction from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA. His areas of expertise include Curriculum and Instruction, English Language Studies, and Educational Administration. His research primarily focuses on reading benchmarking, reading assessment, curriculum development, and educational management and leadership.