

Biodata: Daysi Lorena Narváez-Cantos & Maria de Lourdes Carreño-Jácome

Daysi Lorena Narváez-Cantos, with a Bachelor in International Studies, applies her international perspective to teaching foreign languages (EFL and FLE). She holds a Master in Pedagogy of National and Foreign Languages, an MSc. in Population and Development Sciences from Université Catholique de Louvain-UCL, Belgium, and a Master in Neuropsychology and Education from the International University of La Rioja, Spain. Her research focuses on EFL teacher effectiveness, teaching effectiveness, effective foreign language(s) teachers, and self-efficacy-enhanced language learning.

María de Lourdes Carreño-Jácome, with a Bachelor in English Language and Literature. She holds a Master's Degree in Applied Linguistics for Teaching English as a foreign language. Her research focuses on EFL teacher effectiveness, teaching effectiveness, self-efficacy-enhanced language learning, automated speaking scoring, and human speaking scoring.