

Biodata

Chesla Ann Bohinski, Ph.D. is an Assistant Professor at Binghamton University (Binghamton, NY, USA). Throughout her 15-year teaching career, Dr. Bohinski has not only dedicated herself to teaching Spanish, but also to helping educators identify the most effective ways to facilitate the teaching and learning of a second language.

Nadia Mulé, M.Ed., is a New York (USA) native. She graduated from Rutgers University with a Masters in Foreign Language Education and a specialization in Italian and Spanish. She has been a foreign language educator for nine years, spreading the importance of linguistic and cultural competence in our ever-changing world.