

Biodata: Charlie Taylor

Charlie Taylor teaches English at National Taitung Senior High School and National Taitung University in Taiwan. He holds a professional Master of Education degree from Queen's University in Canada. He researches and writes about language teaching and learning, and his articles appear regularly in refereed journals and professional teaching magazines. His current research interests include the psychology of language learning, extensive reading, and mobile assisted language learning.