

Biodata: Mozhgan Morshedian, Afsaneh Ghanizadeh, & Sepideh Mirzaee

Mozhgan Morshedian holds a Master's degree in Teaching English as a Foreign Language. Currently, she serves as a lecturer at Imam Reza International University, teaching Bachelor's level courses. She has also held several workshops. Her research interest focuses on Psychology of Teaching and New Teaching Methodology.

Afsaneh Ghanizadeh is an Associate Professor at Imam Reza International University, Mashhad, Iran. She received her PhD in English language teaching (ELT) from Ferdowsi University of Mashhad. She teaches ELT at MA level, and supervises theses in the field. She has held workshops on research in applied linguistics via statistical software packages such as, LISREL, SPSS, and MAXQDA. She has published over 70 papers in research scientific journals and about 60 papers in ISI or Scopus-indexed journals (published in Elsevier, Oxford, Springer, Taylor & Francis, Sage, Emerald, etc.), and about 8 books in the field, including a book in Springer. Her research interests include psycholinguistics, psychology of language teaching and learning, and teacher education. The ORCID ID is 0000-0003-1649-1556.

Sepideh Mirzaee holds a Doctor of Philosophy degree in Teaching English as a Foreign Language (TEFL). She has taught a diverse range of Bachelor's and Master's level courses across multiple institutions, concurrently serving as a supervisor for Master's theses in the same field. Her contributions to the academic community encompass numerous publications both domestically and abroad, alongside presentations at national and international conferences. Her research interests encompass a broad spectrum of topics including, but not limited to, psycholinguistics, sociolinguistics, applied linguistics, critical pedagogy, and quantitative and qualitative research. The ORCID is 0000-0002-0057-2960