

Biodata: Junifer Abatayo, Jose Cristina M. Parina, & Kristine D. de Leon

Junifer Abatayo is a Fellow of the Higher Education Academy (now Advance HE, UK). Currently, he is teaching at the English Language Department of Bahrain Teachers College, University of Bahrain. He is the Regional Representative of the Asian Association for Language Assessment (AALA). He is also a trained Site Reviewer for the Commission on English Language Program Accreditation (CEA), USA. His research interests include TESOL, Testing and Assessment, Communities of Practice, and Teaching and Learning in Higher Education. Dr. Abatayo served as Chair of the Center for Educational Development (CED- Sohar University), Sultanate of Oman and Testing and Assessment Unit (ELCY) Royal Commission Yanbu, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

Jose Cristina M. Parina was an Associate Professor in the Department of English and Applied Linguistics at De La Salle University-Manila. She was the former Vice-Chair and Graduate School Coordinator of the said department and former Director of the Center of Language Learning of the Br. Andrew Gonzales – College of Education. She finished her undergraduate studies until her Ph.D. in Applied Linguistics at the same university. She has published research articles in the field of Language Teaching, Sociolinguistics, and Language and humor and has been invited to numerous paper presentations abroad in the said fields.

Kristine D. de Leon holds a PhD degree in Applied Linguistics, and she is an assistant professor and a program coordinator of English language Education at Sohar University. Her research interests are World Englishes focusing on Philippine English and intelligibility of Englishes, sociolinguistics, second language acquisition and language teaching. She has published in various journals, and some of her publications are "The intelligibility and comprehensibility of Philippine English to ESL students, A study of Filipino complaints in English and Tagalog" and "A stylistic analysis of the use of modality to identify the point of view in a short story". In addition, she is also a reviewer of academic journals such as Philippine Journal of Linguistics and Journal of English and Applied Linguistics.