Biodata: Mohammad Amini Farsani and Nahid Aghamohammadi

Mohammad is an Assistant Professor in Applied Linguistics at Iran University of Science and Technology. He has focused on research methodology and L2 writing courses for MA and PhD students. His areas of research are meta-research, research synthesis, and mixed methods research. He has published in different journals such as System, Applied Linguistics, Quality and Quantity, Mixed Methods Research, Argumentation, Research in Post-Compulsory Education, and Writing & Pedagogy.

Nahid has an MA in TEFL from the Iran University of Science and Technology. Her areas of research are L2 writing and argumentative writing. She has presented at national and international conferences. Teaching-wise, Nahid has also focused on young learners in private institutes in Iran.