

Biodata: Amir Hossein Firoozkahi & Musa Nushi

Amir Hossein Firoozkahi holds an MA in teaching English as a foreign language (TEFL) from Shahid Beheshti University. He is based in Tehran, Iran and is currently working as an IELTS trainer and English language instructor at Aryam International College and Iran Language Institute. He has been involved in the teaching profession since 2013, cooperating with different language institutes. He also takes a keen interest in conducting both quantitative and qualitative research with respect to issues in bi/multilingualism, teacher education, and SLA and has already published works in the International Journal of Multilingualism and International Journal for Educational Integrity.

Musa Nushi is an assistant professor in TEFL at Shahid Beheshti University in Tehran, Iran. He teaches Academic Writing, Discourse Analysis, Psycholinguistics and Technology in Second Language Teaching and Learning at graduate level. His research interests lie mainly in the interface of instruction and English as a Foreign Language (EFL) learning, with particular emphasis on the role of technology and corrective feedback. Musa spent the 2005–2006 academic year teaching Persian as a heritage language at Portland State University, Oregon, the USA. His publications have appeared in a number of (inter)national journals, including Reading in a Foreign language.