

Biodata: Yang Fan

Dr. YANG Fan is currently a program officer in the Office of International Education at Beijing Language and Culture University, Beijing, China. She earned her Ed.D. from University of the Pacific in Stockton, California, the U.S., where she worked in the Department of Educational Administration and Leadership at the Benerd School of Education as a graduate assistant. Her research interests include English education, teacher education, and international comparative education.