

Biodata: Dennis Alberto Suzuki Sánchez & Elva Nora Pamplon Irigoyen

Dennis Alberto Suzuki Sánchez holds a Master's degree in Humanities focused on the area of foreign language teaching and has a degree in English language teaching. He has taught English in public and private high school institutions in Mexico and is currently pursuing a Doctorate in Humanities at the University of Sonora and his current research interests are writing and research processes in higher education.

Elva Nora Pamplon Irigoyen holds a Doctorate in Humanities in the area of foreign languages and an M.A. in TESOL. She is a full time professor-researcher in the Department of Foreign Languages of the University of Sonora, México teaching in the B.A in English Language Teaching and in the Humanities graduate program. She is a member of the Applied Linguistics in Foreign Languages research group focusing on the areas of academic writing at university level and primary ELT in Mexico.