

Biodata: Singay, Dechen Pelden, & Sonam Dorji

Singay (corresponding author) is a researcher at Centre for Bhutan and GNH Studies. He holds a Master's degree in Applied Linguistics/TESOL from International College, Payap University, Thailand. His research interests include computer-assisted language teaching, written corrective feedback, and second language writing.

Dechen Pelden is a senior lecturer in the English Department, Faculty of Humanities, Royal Thimphu College. She holds a Master's degree in English and Literature from English and Foreign Language University, Hyderabad, India. Her research interests cover English language teaching methodology, academic skills, and teacher professional development.

Sonam Dorji is a teacher at Lamgong Higher Secondary School in Paro, Bhutan. His current research interests cover teacher professional development, materials development, and teaching methodology.