

Biodata: Juanita Argudo-Serrano, Tammy Fajardo-Dack, Mónica Abad-Celleri, Patricio Cabrera

Juanita Argudo-Serrano is an Associate Professor at the English teaching training program at Universidad de Cuenca, Ecuador. Juanita is a researcher at the same university and collaborates on several projects at different universities in Cuenca. Her teaching and research areas of interest are in-service and preservice teachers' development, language evaluation, content and language-integrated learning for preservice and in-service teachers, expressive writing to relieve stress, and critical language pedagogy.

Tammy Fajardo-Dack is an Associate Professor in the teaching English as a Foreign language undergraduate program at Universidad de Cuenca in Ecuador. She is part of the network of critical action researchers of education at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education. She is a researcher in the area of language education whose interests are content and language-integrated learning for preservice and in-service teachers, action research in university education, communities of practice as a space for teacher professional development, the social theory of learning, and critical language pedagogy.

Mónica Abad-Celleri is an Associate Professor at the English teaching training program at Universidad de Cuenca, Ecuador, and a researcher at the same institution. She has a PhD in Education from Universidad Nacional de la Plata, Argentina. Her research areas of interest are CLIL for pre-service teachers, critical pedagogy for ELT, Phonology for EFL listening, and English pronunciation.

Patricio Cabrera is a researcher in social sciences with experience in methodological services for the analysis of quantitative and qualitative information in research projects. He has two bachelor's degrees, one in educational sciences with emphasis in philosophy, sociology, and economics, and the other in English language and literature. Patricio has a master's degree in integrative research, he has been a guest lecturer in research methodology in master's theses and seminars for teachers. He is currently working at Cabrera y Andrade Cía. Ltda. while pursuing a PhD in social sciences at the University of Salamanca, Spain. His areas of interest include education, epistemology, psychology, sociology, and economics.